

My thoughts on home learning in lockdown 2021

When I first found out that we had to go back into lockdown, I was a bit upset that I couldn't see my friends. I found this hard but at least I could see some of their faces on the online lessons.

Home learning was different this time because we got to have online lessons and the teachers could help us. I preferred this lockdown because the teachers did the whole lesson with us and we could stay on at the end of each google meet to get extra help if we needed it.

The weather was also different because it snowed this time but last time it was sunny. The teachers set us a task where we were able to play and build in the snow. This was fun!

At the beginning of lockdown, I wasn't very confident using google classroom but now I find it really easy. It was pretty easy to navigate around google classroom. I could submit my work pretty easily too.
