

Earth Day

In school, on Earth Day, we learned about our carbon footprints. A carbon footprint is basically what damage you do to the environment. For example, if you take the car to places you could walk or cycle to, it will add to your carbon footprint because using the car pollutes the air. The Earth is becoming less and less healthy. In years, there could be no more humans or Earth. I pledge to start turning the tap off when I brush my teeth. Even going to the toilet and leaving your light on after is affecting the climate. Little things can make a big difference.

Evie Wood

